Biographical Note: Howard Alexander Donald, M.D. (1915-1994) was a graduate of George Washington University Medical School. He was a medical resident in obstetrics and gynecology when he entered the United States Army as a First Lieutenant in 1939. By 1944, he had achieved the rank of Major and was assigned to the 203rd Hospital Ship Complement in Charleston, SC. He was subsequently assigned to the United States Army Hospital Ship Algonquin. In 1945, he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Following his military service, Dr. Donald completed his residency at Columbia Hospital for Women in Washington, D.C. and later served as Chief of Staff and on the Executive Board.

Series/Scope and Content Note: The Donald Collection was donated to the National Museum of Health and Medicine in 2007 by Douglas Donald, Dr. Donald's son. The collection includes photographs and correspondence related to the US Army service of Dr. Donald, primarily during the period when he was commanding officer of the US Army Hospital Ship Algonquin, as well as his activities in converting commercial ships to hospital ships in World War 2. Includes photographs taken by Donald of ports in Italy, Tunisia, and US as well as on board the Algonquin. Additional rare items of note include dinner menus and activities for patients being transported.
