Biographical Note: Thomas Stoltz Harvey, M.D. (October 10, 1912 – April 5, 2007) was a pathologist who conducted the autopsy on Albert Einstein in 1955. Harvey studied at Yale University as an undergraduate and later as a medical student under Dr. Harry Zimmerman.

The autopsy was conducted at Princeton Hospital in Princeton NJ, on April 18 at 8:00 am. Harvey sectioned the preserved brain into 170 pieces in a lab at the University of Pennsylvania, a process that took three full months to complete. Those 170 sections were then sliced in microscopic slivers and mounted onto slides and stained. There were 12 sets of slides created with hundreds of slides in each set. Harvey retained two complete sets for his own research and distributed the rest to handpicked leading pathologists of the time. No permission for the removal and preservation had been given by Einstein or his family, but when the family learned about the study, permission to proceed with the study was granted as long as the results were only published in scientific journals and not sensationalized.

In August, 1978, New Jersey Monthly reporter Steven Levy revived interest in the subject when he published an article, "I Found Einstein's Brain", based on his interview with Dr. Harvey when he was living in Wichita, Kansas. In 1988, Dr. Harvey retired and moved to Lawrence, Kansas. In 1996, Harvey moved to Titusville, New Jersey.

In the 1994 documentary Relics: Einstein's Brain, Kinki University Professor Sugimoto Kenji asks Harvey for a piece of the brain, to which Harvey consents and slices a portion of the brain-stem. Footage shows Harvey segmenting and handing over to Sugimoto a portion. In 1998, Harvey delivered the remaining uncut portion of Einstein's brain to Dr. Elliot Krauss, a pathologist at University Medical Center at Princeton. Certain parts of Einstein's brain were found to have a higher proportion of glial cells than the average male brain.

In 2005, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of Einstein's death, the 92-year-old Harvey gave interviews regarding the remarkable history of the brain from his home in New Jersey.

Series/Scope and Content Note: This collection consists of photographs, correspondence, and articles collected by Harvey, pertaining to Albert Einstein's brain and Harvey's possession, histologic processing, and distribution of the tissue. The collection includes photographs of the brain before and during block sectioning, labeled diagrams of block sectioning, correspondence, scholarly reprints, popular articles, newspaper clippings, and other documents.

SERIES 001: PHOTOGRAPHS

This series includes several hundred photographs of Einstein's brain after it had been removed during autopsy. The organization of the photographs reflects their division and labeling when they were donated. Many of the photographs are numbered, overlined with grids, or labeled with pen. However, rarely is a complete series packaged together. The original names and order of the folders have been preserved when possible, as denoted by titles in quotation marks. The series also includes Kodachromes, photomicrographs, negatives, photocopies, and transparencies.

SERIES 002: TISSUE PROCESSING RECORDS

This series includes drawings, charts, and diagrams used by Harvey in processing Einstein's brain. Additional materials include lists of measurements, background material on dissection, chemistry and conducting autopsies.

SERIES 003: LEGAL DOCUMENTS

This series consists of copyright information and registration for photographs of Einstein's brain and a photocopy of Einstein's will.

SERIES 004: CORRESPONDENCE WITH ASSOCIATED REPRINTS, PHOTOGRAPHS AND NOTES

This series is organized alphabetically and includes Harvey's correspondence and collaboration with various individuals and institutions regarding the study of Einstein's brain and the acquisition of specimens. Three folders also include dozens of letters written to Harvey seeking information about Einstein's brain. One folder also contains material related to Harvey's medical licenses and hearings regarding his status as a practitioner. All correspondence is restricted for 75 years from the date of its creation.

SERIES 005: REPRINTS, ARTICLES, CLIPPINGS, AND MISC. RESEARCH MATERIAL

This series consists of reprints, clippings, and miscellaneous research material collected and organized by Harvey. Items are grouped according to subjects as originally organized when donated, including material on Einstein's brain specifically, Einstein as a historical figure, brain research broadly construed, brain research applied to the study of Einstein, as well as miscellaneous subjects of interest to Harvey.

SERIES 006: SCRAPBOOK

This series consists of a large scrapbook kept by Harvey, with clippings related to the subject of Einstein's brain.

SERIES 007: HISTOLOGIC MATERIAL

This series consists of 566 sections of brain tissue, mounted on 1x3" and 1.5x3" slides, alternately stained for Myelin and Nissl, between approximately 12 and 20µ thick. The sections were originally cut from more than 200 parts of the brain, divided using the von Economo method. Brain part numbers were assigned by Harvey during sectioning and correspond with the drawings and diagrams in series 002.
