Access to this collection is at the discretion of the Otis Historical Archives and material contained within the records may be subject to review before access is granted. Files containing private patient information and protected administrative and grant records are currently closed to researchers.

Series/Scope and Content Note: This collection primarily documents Hertig's hydatidiform mole study, a project for the American Registry of Pathology which led to an Armed Forces Institute of Pathology tumor fascicle. Hertig, an embryologist, primatologist, and Armed Forces Institute of Pathology consultant, was awarded the Gold-Headed Cane Award. There is also material on ob-gyn studies. The material was collected as part of the Registry of Noteworthy Research in Pathology project. Materials include patient records, notes, drafts, lectures, awards, photographs, three bound volumes of reprints, and a Yakovlev autopsy manual. This collection is partially restricted because it contains medical records.
